

Ambulatory Services

A strategic outsourcing partnership for financial health and growth

This is a historic moment for physician groups as they are challenged with tremendous pressure to cut costs, meet increasing expectations of savvy consumers, deliver quality in value-based environments, and leverage innovation that will impact their physicians and patients. While managing all these market dynamics, organizations also need to find ways to deliver financial and operational sustainability and growth.

Strategic outsourcing partnerships — A new model for revenue cycle operations

Achieving success in this new economic era requires an ideal future state for revenue cycle operations that empowers financial sustainability through transformation. Through collaboration and innovation with the right partner, the revenue cycle can deliver financial predictability and be leveraged as a competitive advantage. Physician groups and their partners should focus on:

- Leveraging predictive analytics to uncover impactful performance opportunities
- Applying automation strategies for a low-to-no touch revenue cycle
- Infusing transformative operations to eliminate waste and inefficiencies

Optum360 Ambulatory Services

Ambulatory Services delivers enterprise growth and predictable outcomes allowing physician groups to focus on their core missions. By strategically inserting predictive analytics, automation strategies and transformative operations, the revenue cycle becomes a center of financial stability and optimal performance.
